

Hybrid Prosthesis Final Restoration

Last Updated Monday, 21 August 2006

Hybrid Prosthesis Final Restoration

The final restoration seated in the mouth. Note the space between the restoration and the gingiva. While this space does afford access for oral hygiene, it is still very difficult to maintain. Fortunately, the gingival tissues around titanium remain fairly healthy even when there is some plaque accumulation as seen above. Some attempts have been made to modify the design of this type of prosthesis to minimize the space.